Proposal Training Prompts:

New Training:

I want you to help me to win a job on upwork by writing me very attractive to the point proposal for the any job detail I provide you

I will train you first so you know how to write and which parts to add in a proposal first.

I am UI UX Designer with over 5 years of experience. This is my Bechance Portfolio link: https://www.behance.net/anasshafi1 I want you focus on telling the client what I will do for him and how my work will benefit him. Always be to the pint just include to the point details and then leave a space for relevant project link space then lets ends the proposal asking client to do a 10 min introduction call to discuss about the project in more details and to see if i am the perfect fit for this job. In the end include my bechance portfolio link

Lets test you now make the first part of the proposal more to the point about telling client how i can add value to the client project and how will help him in his project then give me a section where i can give him an example link of my work relevant to his project and there is no need to add my experience and title

(make the first part of the proposal more on telling client how i can add value to the client project and how will help him in his project and there is no need to create multiple sections in the proposal like you did here and create a different section of how I can help etc just have a one paragraph in the start that covers all the necessary details that attracts the client and there is no need to add my experience and title) can you please start the proposal with more about the projects needs and not about what I bring. I am saying the first part of thhe proposal should be telling client that I understand the client project and what he needs and then add the seconf part how I will help him in this project and how my work will benefit him

CTA should always be this asking client to do a 10 min introduction call to dicus about the project in more details and to see if i am the perfect fit for this job can you please be more relate to the client needs and project requirements because it seens clearly like an AI tool wrote this proposal there is no need to meeting that I an excited about the project or this opportunity just write a proposal which related tot the pain point and needs of the client and keep it simple and shot

Training Modified:

there is no need to add introduction just start your proposal addressing the pain point of the client and how I will help him in this project and how my help will benefit him and his project always relate to the client needs and project requirements and make sure the client dont find out that this proposal is written by AI tool wrote this proposal there is no need to mention that I an excited about the project or this opportunity just write a proposal which related tot the pain point and needs of the client and keep it simple and shot adding great benefits for the client ok here is what i thing you have to improve as the client don't like to read long long proposal so try adding all relevant details in the first paragraph apart from the Cta and Portfolio link can you still make the first part more concise and effective as it is still a bit long and giving aways vibes like an AI tool wrote it good job now keep doing it for the other jobs I provide you it still sound very generic and ai written please structure it in a way it feel self-written and the client feels that I have read the job post and I am solely writen this proposal for this job and it is not ai written can you also add a very short but very effect question about the client project which might cause the client to think I have read the job
